

Read Me - Photo Shoot

Thank You for your interest and purchase.
This is the first box in a set of three.

The “Avatar Dance Lessons” is a small project product. It requires interactive participation to complete. The products are shirts with your avatar on them with a slogan of your choice. My original slogan for this is “I Learned to Dance from My Avatar” and was for a Real Life T-Shirt.

I decided to setup this project in SL for both SL and RL matching T-Shirts or other clothes I could find a match for in both lives. To do this, requires a bit of interaction over a short period of tie. In the end, you'll have two or more shirts in SL and available shirts in RL that you can purchase.

As you go through the instruction Book, it will have Objects to give you. In order to keep the objects actual name, it's saved with a little ball that is named Pages###_info, where ### is the page number. You'll have to rez the group and take the HUD or Object back into inventory. You can trash the ball.

To be clear, the Lindens you spend are for the following.
The shirt products in Second Life.
The images from the photo shoot.
Textures made for your SL clothing and goods.

These are all items in Second Life. The textures made for RL Shirts will be used to make the shirts at the on line stores. These are 3rd party product on demand stores. You'll be able to purchase the RL goods from any of these stores that you want to use for your shirts.

In the RL, I don't interact with you in any way included financial transactions. I get a notice that someone bought a shirt and what the production and margins are.

The first purchase is for a photo shoot. You'll need to contact me to schedule a time to do photographs.

The second purchase is for proofs and demos of your products.

The last item is the final products in Second Life and the available products in Real Life.

Hit me up if you have any questions.
